Order Allows Fireman To Stay On Strike

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A judge Monday struck down an order directing Louisville's 600 union firefighters to end a strike that has closed all but eight of the city's 23 fire stations.

About 500 people, including strikers and their wives and children, cheered outside the building after Jefferson Circuit Judge George Ryan dissolved the temporary restraining order he had issued Friday when the strike began.

Ryan said the order was invalid because Mayor William Stansbury had signed the city's request for a restraining order in advance and was out of town when it was filed.

Stansbury testified that he had signed the request several days in advance for delivery to the judge when the strike began. He said he had been in Atlanta on business Friday.

Ed Zingman, attorney for the city, asked that the back-to-work order be reinstated but Ryan refused. Zingman said he would apply immediately for a new order.

The judge urged the two sides to resume talks that had broken off early Saturday after negotiators reached an impasse in the wage dispute.

"I would like for you to go back and re-negotiate this thing," he said. Herbert Segal, attorney for the firefighters, said only that the union is always ready to negotiate. "We've had no overtures but we are ready, willing and able," he said.

The city has said it will not negotiate unless the firefighters return to work.

The hearing today was on the city's request that contempt-of-court proceedings be started against the firefighters for disregarding Ryan's order.

Granville Ennis, acting president of Louisville Professional Firefighters Local 345, received a big cheer and prolonged applause from the crowd as he entered the county Hall of Justice.

The strikers carried signs reading, "Your City Leaders Did This — Not Us" and "Would You Do What I Do for $3.69 an Hour."

Among the strikers was Bob Burckhardt, a 25-year-old fireman who carried his 1-year-old son, Jeffrey, on his shoulders. He said his wife, mother and three-year-old daughter also were there.

Burckhardt said the strike could continue a long time without causing him a financial hardship because he earns $4 an hour on his second job as an engraver.

"I don't know what's going to happen, but we're not going back until we get what we want," he said.

Fire Department supervisors, aided by the National Guard, are keeping eight fire stations in operation. So far there have been no major fires.

Meanwhile, Gordon Nichols, Guard spokesman, said the 282 guardsmen on duty had spent Sunday "learning the dos and don'ts" of firefighting.

About week after voting to strike, firemen walked off their jobs Friday morning after being paid. Some 13 hours later, they returned to work while negotiators for both sides tried to hammer out an agreement on wages.

That session broke off early Saturday and the firemen have been on strike ever since.

Steve Catlett of the union's executive committee said at a firefighter's rally on Sunday that "The only chance of a return to work is a signed contract."

Catlett said he did not know how the strikers would respond to a decision arising from today's hearing.

"It is a little difficult to predict what the judge will do," he said.

Mayor William Stansbury said the city "remains ready to meet at the bargaining table. However, no such bargaining will be held until the firefighters return to their jobs."

No major fires have been reported since firemen put up picket lines at each fire house and at City Hall.

In a major fire, help also would be provided by the 1,400 volunteer firemen of surrounding Jefferson County under existing mutual aid agreements.

City Fire Chief Thomas Kuster said supervisory personnel were "holding the status quo" and that "the men have still maintained cordiality on the picket line."

Tom Forshee, the city's chief negotiator in the dispute, said the city's last contract offer included all $900,000 of budgeted discretionary funds and would increase total annual compensation for firefighters with five years experience or more from $12,758 to $14,315. He said for every dollar increase in wages for firemen, city pension costs increase 35 percent.

Forshee called the offer "fair and within the request of the firefighters."

Housing Authority, Rights Commission, Adopt Agreement

The Murray Housing Authority has entered into a voluntary affirmative action agreement with the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights.

Adopted by the Murray Housing Authority in its June meeting, the agreement contains a racial ratio plan of tenant assignment designed to desegregate the authority's four family projects.

The commission accepted the order between commission member F. G. Sampson and the Murray housing authority Friday during a commission meeting in Louisville.

According to Tom Ebendorf, the commission's compliance director, under the plan the authority will seek a goal of racial composition in each family project reflective of the black to white tenant ratio in all family projects.

To achieve the "ratio" goal, the authority will place priority on assigning black tenants in projects where blacks are under-represented and on assigning white tenants to projects where whites are under-represented.

The agreement allows settlement of a commissioner initiated discrimination complaint filed against the authority in 1971.

Public Hearing Decision Is On Commission Agenda

Murray Planning Commission members are expected to make a decision on the rezoning request of the People's Bank property on the south-west and southeast corner of Whitnell Ave. when the commission meets Tuesday evening.

Also slated for the 7 p.m. meeting in Murray City Hall is a public hearing on a rezoning request from Taylor and Taylor, Inc. to rezone a portion of their back property from a residential classification to a business.

Discussion of 701 LPA funds is also on the agenda for the Tuesday meeting.

Carter, Leaders Of Six Other Nations Are Unveiling Global Economic Program Today

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
BONN, West Germany (AP)

President Carter and leaders of six other major non-Communist nations today are unveiling an agreement on what U.S. Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal called a "concrete and concerted action program" to deal with global economic problems.

The economic summit's communique, to be issued after the final session this afternoon, was expected to include specific targets for economic growth, employment, and inflation in each of the seven participating nations.

Conferences sources said Carter agreed to increase oil prices to international levels in 1980, although it was not clear how he would accomplish this. Current price controls expire in 1979 but could, under present law, be extended to 1981. The current price of U.S. oil ranges from $5.23 a barrel to $11.75 a barrel. The world price is approximately $13.50.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, said West Germany had agreed to take action increasing its economic growth by the end of August. But they reported that West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt had stricken from the draft of a final communique a specific increase of one percent beyond the anticipated increase.

That increase was expected to be significantly lower than the four percent growth forecast for the United States. West German growth could increase the markets for U.S. products. Robert S. Strauss, Carter's special representative for trade negotiations, said today the summit made "great progress on trade."

He predicted that international negotiations for a pact to reduce international trade barriers would be successful by the end of the year, although "agriculture is still a problem."

Carter told reporters Sunday night, after the first rounds of economic summitry, that "the final results of the deliberations will be good."

West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt said a separate statement to be issued today would include an agreement on "new approaches to terrorism." He offered no details.

Carter, Schmidt, and the leaders of France and Britain met at breakfast today to discuss developments in Berlin, which Carter visited Saturday.

Blumenthal told reporters agreements were reached on economic growth, inflation, employment, energy and international monetary problems. While the United States was under pressure at the summit to pledge meaningful energy conservation, West Germany and Japan in particular were pressed by Carter to expand their domestic economies and create larger markets for American exports.

Blumenthal said the Germans and Japanese "are prepared to take, if necessary, substantial measures" to satisfy Carter on that point.

A question remained about how specific the seven nations would be in pledging economic moves ranging from reducing oil imports in the United States to spurring economic growth.

Civic Music Schedule Announced

John C. (Jack) Winter has announced the program of concerts to be presented by the Murray Civic Music Association (MCMA) the 1978-79 season.

Starting in October and concluding in April, this is the first time six presentations have been scheduled for one season:

October 15, Owensboro Orchestra with Laser Spectacle; October 24, The Sound of Music;

November 3, Cincinnati Ballet performing The Nutcracker Suite; December 5, H. Guiterrez, pianist; April 3, Richard Fredericks, baritone and Louise Russel, soprano; April 8, Chicago Symphony String Quartet.

Not only is this season's program an ambitious one as to number of concerts, but also, MCMA Board members feel they have never before booked such consistent top quality representing a variety of art forms, Winter, who is president to MCMA, said.

The well recognized regional Owensboro Symphony Orchestra conducted by Leon Gregorian will open the season on October 15. In addition, Soleil (Laser Music Spectacle), a choreographed light show done with computers and laser beams throughout the entire show assures this will be a very popular presentation.

MCMA members have a special treat in store on October 24 with Rodgers and Hammerstein's "The Sound of Music," one of the most popular of all American musicals comes to Murray. After its long run on Broadway, it was made even more famous on the screen. Young and old alike thrill to the beautiful music and story of the Von Trapp family, Winter said.

The program continues with the "Nutcrackers Suite" performed by the Cincinnati Ballet on November 3rd. The ballet by any measure has become the fastest growing art form in America and MCMA assures its ticket-holders an opportunity to be a part of the "balletomania" now sweeping the country.

"The Nutcracker" is an especially fitting choice, heralding the approaching Christmas season, bringing together the romantic music of Tschalkowsky, the lights, the magic and the exquisite dance for an altogether beautiful performance, Winter said.

The fourth concert to be presented before the holidays is by the internationally famous pianist, Horacio Gutierrez on December 5.

Resuming the schedule in the spring two concerts will be presented: A dual program by Fredericks, baritone, and Russell, soprano, and a program by the Chicago Symphony String Quartet.

Federal Officials Have Contingency Plan

What Will Happen If Postal Strike Occurs?

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal troops might be called in to sort mail. Some forms of mail temporarily could be forbidden. Deliveries might be stopped or cut back.

In addition, millions of retired people might have to pick up Social Security checks that normally come to their door.

These are some of the contingency plans federal officials have ready in the event the U.S. Postal Service and three postal unions cannot agree on a new contract this week and a mail strike follows.

The current pact expires at midnight Thursday.

Despite lengthy bargaining sessions over the weekend, the Postal Service and the three unions involved in the talks remained far apart on the major issues.

Federal mediators reported late Sunday that progress had been made on some differences but that all the major issues including wages remained unresolved.

While national union leaders have refused publicly to discuss possible strike actions, officials of some militant East Coast unions have threatened a repeat of the scattered strikes that followed bargainers' failure in 1970 to reach agreement on a contract.

The Postal Service contingency plan, a copy of which was obtained by The Associated Press, outlines these alternatives:

—National guardsmen, regular military forces and even college ROTC members could be pressed into service during a mail emergency.

—Depending on the severity of local conditions, deliveries could be cancelled and people would have to pick up their mail at a post office.

—Monday through Friday delivery could be maintained, but Saturday deliveries would be suspended.

—Postmaster General William F. Bolger could embargo certain types of mail, forbidding third-class advertising circulars, for example.

The Social Security Administration, scheduled to mail 26 million checks Aug. 3, is making its own contingency plans.

That plan includes asking 23.7 million pension recipients and 2.3 million people due to get Supplemental Security Income checks to pick up their checks at a Social Security office, a spokesman for the Social Security agency said.

The Coldwater Home-makers Club held its June meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Dan Bazzell, who presided.

Mrs. Ralph Bennett gave the devotion, Mrs. Regena Bazzell, treasurer, gave her report. Members answered the roll call by naming a household task they enjoy.

Officers were elected for the new year who are Mrs. Dan Bazzell, home furnishings and president; Mrs. Newel Doores, family life and vice-president; Mrs. Ronnie Bazzell, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Ralph Bennett, cultural arts; Mrs. Vivian Adams, clothing; Mrs. Sandra West, foods and nutrition; Mrs. Dewey Bazzell, health; Mrs. Hugh Adams, home management and family economics; Mrs. Bobby Adams, housing; Mrs. Freelan Youngblood, issues and concerns; Mrs. Noble Fuqua, publicity.

Many other plants were shown and tips on how to place them where their beauty would be enjoyed the most were given. Another feature of the garden was the well with the old oaken bucket with the drinking gourd which brought back many memories of the past, Mrs. Fuqua said.

The club members expressed regret of the loss of Jane Douglas who has accepted full time teaching duties this fall at Southwest Calloway Elementary School. Refreshments were served to eight children and ten members.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Sept. 12, at one p.m. at the home of Mrs. Noble Fuqua. Visitors are always welcome, a club spokesman said.

Fluoride spots

Fluoride, that natural mineral many communities add to their water supply to prevent cavities during formative years, can discolor teeth, too, if taken in too large amounts.

High levels of it in drinking water can cause brown spots on the teeth, mottling, in children up to 12 years of age, says the Health Insurance Institute.

That's why, according to the Environmental Protection Agency, the maximum amount of fluoride allowed in drinking water by the national standard ranges from 0.4 milligrams per liter to 2.4.

It all depends on the daily air temperature. The hotter the climate the lower the amount allowed. The reasoning: People tend to drink more water in hot climates.

Down the Garden Path
By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

What a delightful shower we had Sunday afternoon. And it was unexpected as no rain had been forecast. At least there was one day I didn't have to water the yard. The recent heat has been terribly hard on flowers of all kinds. It isn't that they didn't get enough water, but that the heat in the atmosphere actually dried out the blossoms. There is little we can do about that, except to spray the foliage when we water the flower beds. Do this late in the afternoon when it is cooler and plants have the whole night to absorb every drop of moisture.

Keep weeds and grass away from the roots of flowers, as they will take up not only moisture from the plants, but nourishment as well. By keeping the beds clean we will give the plants and shrubs a better chance to survive this hot season.

I am finding it hard to eradicate insects from a hanging geranium basket. When any kind of pest gets hold of a plant, it is almost impossible to get rid of them. Two doses of Sevin at weekly intervals seem to keep them away for a few days and then they are back again. Perhaps a daily spray of insecticide for several days may be more effective.

This time of the year when all sorts of pests and varmints seem pitted against the best efforts of a gardener, I am reminded of a verse in Joel, the first chapter and fourth verse. Look in your Bible and see if you don't agree.

Something has completely eaten up my Broccoli in spite of sprays. I think insects become immune to our sprays and thrive on them. So it is a constant battle.

But all isn't lost. There is quite a bit of beauty in the yard. The hosta plants are loaded with dainty spikes. The marigolds bloom merrily on, so bright and cheerful and seem to laugh at bugs that chew other things. A Pink Glory Lily is covered with huge buds and I hope to have something that is really beautiful when they completely open up.

Lilies, along with roses, are the queens of the garden. They are so handsome and stately in their perfection. And really they are very easy to grow. I don't know why more of them are not grown. All they require is good soil mixed with plenty of humus and some shade during the hottest part of the day. They reward you with gorgeous blooms that last a long time. Simply plant them in the fall or very early in the spring and wait to see what happens. There are so many lovely things to grow and enjoy. Try a new one this fall.

Eat Thiamin Daily

Since the body can't store thiamin in quantity, it's important that it be provided daily in the diet through the foods we eat. Thiamin is water soluble and is broken down by heat. Therefore, methods of food preparation are important. While usual meat cooking methods don't cause excessive thiamin loss, remember to cook meat at low to moderate temperatures for the greatest saving of this vitamin. Be sure to make use of liquids in which thiamin-rich foods have been cooked.

FOR TUESDAY, JULY 18, 1978

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES

(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) Face possible changes with equanimity. With YOUR know-how and ingenuity, you can cope. Romance in high favor.

TAURUS

(Apr. 21 to May 21) What's expedient is not always wise. Be careful where and when you must refuse, consent, dismiss suggestions from your mind. But don't arbitrarily reject another's idea.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21) You may face some complications — in quite unexpected areas. How you handle situations and the pace you set will determine their solution.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23) Stick close to facts and control your imagination. Don't try to put a square peg into a round hole. Pick your way discretely.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23) A good word from the right source may enable you to attain the recognition you have been seeking. You have just cause for optimism.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) If you're planning an unusual venture, it would be wise to "go it alone" for the present. Associates may be unrealistic or impractical.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Certain problems which have been bothering you may be resolved now. Good deeds of the past may also pay off. It should be a very happy day.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) An auspicious period! Go after whatever is worthwhile — with all the vigor you can muster.

By-pass trifles that interfere with essentials.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) Personal relationships at their best. In fact, a friend or close associate may be instrumental in helping you to solve a difficult situation.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try not to set too fast a pace — either for yourself or others. You could find that you've expended a lot of time and energy to no useful purpose.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't start anything without knowing if you can follow through. All efforts and ambitions must be carefully directed now. Neither follow new trends blindly.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be careful in handling personal affairs; there may be some tricky areas, a few kinks to iron out before taking action. Some conflict of interests indicated.

YOU BORN TODAY are an essentially conservative individual; intellectually inclined and highly intuitive. Mrs. Littleton Speaks At Magazine Club Luncheon

The Magazine Club concluded its activities until fall with a Salad Luncheon. The dining room table was centered with a lovely arrangement of tiger lilies and Mrs. Joe Littleton, other floral settings were in the living room and on the porch of the home of Mrs. W. Z. Carter on June 22.

Guests included: Mrs. Mary Bell Overbey, Mrs. Vernon Hale, and Mrs. Mildred Lee from Tampa, Florida who is a sister of Mrs. Carter.

The speaker was Mrs. Joe Littleton, daughter of member, Mrs. Jack Kennedy, who gave an interesting report on the National Women's Conference which she attended in Houston, Texas last November 18-21. The thrust of the Conference was to secure the passage of the National Plan of Action which includes aids to women in many situations.

The "ABCs" of the N.P.A. specify aid to all kinds of women in need-battered, disabled, minority, older and rural. The Equal Rights Amendment is only one part of this National Plan of Action although it has received the lion's share of publicity.

The N.P.A. also includes most every situation which touches women's lives—child abuse, child care, credit, employment, health, insurance, reproductive freedom and sexual preference.

The tenets of N.P.A. were accepted by the National Women's Conference in Houston and such acceptance is considered a consolidated aid to progress of the women's movement.

The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. R. F. Dixon, the president, and reports were given by Mrs. E. C. Jones, courtesy, Mrs. Jack Kennedy, membership, and Mrs. Harry Sparks, treasurer.

Ditches Wife, Loves Freedom

DEAR ABBY: Six months ago I left my wife of 17 years for another woman. (I'll call her "Dixie.") It tore my wife up, but Dixie and I had been having this terrific love affair for two years and I had to make a choice or I'd lose Dixie. Well, two weeks ago, Dixie and I split up. Now I'm going to confess something to you that may sound silly. I love my freedom. I enjoy being able to come and go as I please without having someone ask me, "Why are you late?" "Where have you been?" "Who were you with?"

Abby, I know I don't really love my wife, but I owe her a lot for raising our two children. I don't really want to go back to Dixie although she says she still loves me and wants me back. My wife wants me back, too. I don't know what to do.

Don't send me to a shrink. I don't believe in them. And don't send me to a preacher. It's been 17 years since I've been to church. What do you suggest?

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: Loving your freedom as you do, it would be cruel to go back to your wife and tear up her life again, so don't go back unless you can be a faithful husband. It has obviously cooled off between you and Dixie, so do yourself a favor and stay away from her. You need to discuss your problem with a professional who can help you get your head together. And make NO major decisions while you are "undecided."

DEAR ABBY: I am 12 years old and my brother is 7. Our mother and father split up, and Dad is married to another lady now. Mom is going to marry another man in November.

Mom's new husband has a boy who is 10 years old. After Mom marries this man, his kid is going to live with us and be our "brother." (His own mom is dead.) He don't know how to hold a fork, he walks like a girl and talks like a baby, and we don't like him at all. What should we do?

ROCHESTER, N.Y.

DEAR ROCHESTER: You and your brother should be extra nice to this motherless 10-year-old boy. He may be a slow learner, but he has feelings. Be patient with him, and try to teach him. Kids who are the "hardest" to love usually need love the most.

DEAR ABBY: I am a very busy plastic surgeon but I am taking time out to ask you PLEASE to tell parents NEVER to allow their children to stand up in either the front or back of an automobile while it is in motion! These last few weeks I have been called upon to make some extensive repairs on some beautiful young faces that were seriously mutilated from accidents that came about in just this way. All it takes is one abrupt stop for a youngster's face to strike a windshield, dashboard or the back of a front seat with such force as to break face bones, knock out teeth and cause disfiguring injuries.

Today I worked with an eye surgeon for nearly two hours in a vain effort to save the eye of a 4-year-old boy who had been standing in the back of his mother's car when she slammed on her brakes. (The child's eye was gouged out as he struck the ashtray.) Please print this. Such accidents are always on the increase in the summertime.

ALBANY SURGEON

DEAR SURGEON: Thank you for the timely reminder.

CONFIDENTIAL TO D. J. L. IN MANSFIELD, OHIO: If you want to be happy, keep the telephone of your mind open to optimism, cheerfulness, health and love. Then whenever doubt, anxiety, depression and hate try to call you, they'll keep getting a busy signal—and they'll soon forget your number.

Are your problems too heavy to handle alone? Let Abby help you. For a personal, unpublished reply, write: Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Body Fluid Requirements Are Highly Variable

Q. Mr. H. K. wants to know about the daily fluid requirements of the average adult.

A. The amount of liquids required by the average adult varies so much that it is almost impossible to give a specific figure.

Water is essential for life, and a person cannot survive longer than seven to 10 days without it, while the body can live for weeks if adequate fluids are available.

Fluids are usually lost from the body through moisture in the air that is breathed, urine that is excreted by the kidneys to remove waste products from the metabolism, water in normal bowel movements, and evaporation from the skin. The amount of liquid lost by each of these routes depends on what a person is doing and on the conditions in the environment. For example, exercise on a hot day will cause much more loss through perspiration than during cold weather. Exercise may increase respiration.

Fluid intake has to be adequate under normal conditions to replace rather promptly liquids lost from the body so that the fluid balance remains fairly constant.

The average adult requires about 1,500 cubic centimeters (a little over 1.5 quarts) to replace fluid loss. Of course, much more — up to five or six quarts — may be needed, depending on body activity and the surrounding circumstances. Football players often lose five to 10 pounds in weight during a game, and much of the loss is a depletion of fluids.

Some fluid replacement may come from foods such as fruits, vegetables, and milk.

During certain diseases, fluids should be increased. Diarrhea may cause a rapid loss of them and require replacement. Toxic conditions, often accompanied by fever, may need water and other liquids to flush toxins from the system as during a case of flu or a cold. Constipation often is associated with an inadequate fluid intake. A regular increase may result in moistening the stool and in promoting bowel movements, especially if fluids are taken along with a bulky diet of fibers in fruits and vegetables. An increase of liquids often is helpful to the kidneys, especially in conditions that may produce urinary stones, as in gout.

Fluids have to be restricted in certain forms of heart disease but less so now that diuretics are available. Such cases must follow the advice of their physician.

Attorney Bill Phillips Speaker, Two Groups

Murray attorney, Bill Phillips, spoke to students enrolled in the home economics course on Family Economics at Murray State University. The class, taught by Judy Payne, is studying personal financial planning and budgeting. Phillips' subject was on Consumer Protection under State Laws and Basic Elements of Wills and Estates.

The students expressed an interest in the field of Paralegal Studies, a course offered at the University to prepare persons to become legal assistants. According to Phillips, state legislative recognition of the field and a determination of educational qualifications and licensing will be necessary before paralegals can be fully utilized in Kentucky.

Phillips was the featured speaker at the Department of Human Resources Seminar at the University of Kentucky for the use of paralegals in the delivery of legal services to the elderly. He has been a frequent speaker before local groups and clubs on a variety of law-related topics.

A native of Murray, Phillips has been engaged in the private practice of law for the past 16 years and holds the position of Murray City Attorney.

Combs Takes Issue With Story

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Former Gov. Bert Combs has taken issue with an Associated Press story which reported he had objected to proposed appointments of two men by the state administration.

The news analysis, appearing July 5, quoted reliable sources as saying Combs was among those who opposed the appointment of former Gov. A. B. Chandler to the University of Kentucky Board of Trustees by Gov. Julian Carroll and the purported plan for Ewart Johnson of Winchester to succeed Terry McBrayer as state commerce commissioner.

Chandler now is a UK trustee. No successor to McBrayer, who is resigning in a couple of weeks, has been announced.

Combs said in a statement that the article about old feuds in the Democratic Party "makes interesting reading, but to the extent that it attributes certain statements or actions to me, it is completely and entirely and wholly false."

He said Carroll did not consult with him about the Chandler appointment and "I have never directly or indirectly expressed any displeasure about it." Combs and Chandler were factional opponents within the party.

Combs said he did not know that Johnson, who had been associated with another factional wing of the party unfriendly to Combs, wanted to succeed McBrayer, never communicated with Carroll on the matter and did not hear about it from the governor.

"Moreover, I happen to think Ewart would be a good selection as commissioner of commerce," he added.

The former governor said the "reliable sources" cited "have fabricated this story out of whole cloth."

NEW YORK (AP) — The automobile industry is substituting plastics for other materials to reduce weight, which in turn reduces the amount of gas and oil needed to run a car.

The Society of the Plastics Industry estimates that by 1980 the energy saved from this source alone will equal or exceed the amount of petroleum contained in all the plastic products produced in the U.S. each year.

Ever See A County Agent In Pantyhose?

Debbie King and Anne Alvarez wouldn't have too much trouble stumping the experts on "What's My Line?"

Their occupations really aren't all that unusual. But how often have you seen a county agricultural agent or a plant pathologist who wears panty hose?

Debbie is one of only 28 women in the United States who work as county farm agents. She joined the select group in 1974 when a hiring committee composed of farmers and one farm wife chose her from a field of 20 highly qualified applicants.

As Connecticut's first woman farm agent, she deals with agricultural problems in three counties. And she's equally adept at discussing animal health and correct feed rations with livestock owners, or giving tips on plant and soil requirements to vegetable growers.

While Debbie's trailblazing new agricultural career opportunities for women in New England, Anne is pioneering along similar lines in Hawaii. As the Extension Service's first woman plant pathologist, she prescribes treatment for disease-ridden plants and vegetables. Anne also keeps a sharp eye out for potential problem areas before diseases get out of hand.

In addition, she makes on-site farm visits, trains foremen for ranches and agricultural corporations, and handles such special problems as seed transmission, cultural practices, and epidemiology.

The "break-through" by Anne, Debbie, and others into jobs once totally male-dominated is only one facet of the expanding role being played by women in agriculture, reports the National Cotton Council.

Farm wives—whose contributions too often have gone unnoticed throughout America's history—are now taking a more vocal role. They've organized in groups ranging from Cotton Wives to Cowbells to talk up the consumer appeal of the produce from their farms. And a group in Michigan initiated an organization known as Women for the Survival of Agriculture to air some of the issues affecting farming's future.

While such activities by farm wives seem to be on the increase, they're not without precedent.

The trailblazer of this approach was a 19th Century Kansas farm wife named Mary Elizabeth Lease. She was in the forefront of the Farmers' Alliance movement to improve the economic lot of the nation's farm families.

During the 1890 political campaign, she delivered the same advice to farmers in no less than 160 speeches. "What you farmers need to do," she told them, "is to raise less corn and more hell."

Mary Lease's advice may not have been universally accepted, but it won her acclaim as the "Patrick Henry in Petticoats."

Chances are she'd be glad to hear that 20th Century America now has county agents in panty hose.

FOOD for THOUGHT

An Agricultural Concern Of Interest to Everyone

Fifty years ago, the typical small grocery store handled 850 different items, mostly food.

Twenty-five years ago, a store's inventory increased to 3750 items, including quite a few in the non-food category.

Today, the number of different items in a modern supermarket totals more than 11,000, featuring a wide variety of non-food merchandise.

Such a large inventory helps increase food costs in two ways. Handling such a variety of items increases a market's costs and the price of food. Also, shoppers tend to consider all purchases as part of their food budget.

To avoid throw-aways every time you clean out the refrigerator, check the foods on each shelf before you do your weekly food shopping, say food specialists with the Cooperative Extension Service of UK's College of Agriculture. That way you'll spot the ones that should be eaten right away before they have a chance to spoil.

Open house set at UK's landscape garden center

"Wish I had a green thumb."

That's a wish that creeps into the minds of most every householder every year. People through the centuries have expressed their love of beauty in growing plants. Even with the changing life styles—with apartments and limited "growing space"—there is an even greater desire of humans to "have plants around."

Annually the Horticulture and Landscape Architecture Department of UK's College of Agriculture develops a Landscape Garden Center—with one weekend set aside as a "gardening weekend" when an "exhibition" of nearly everything in floral and orna-

The specialists and professionals will be at the center from 1-5 p.m. both days of the "gardening weekend" to talk with visitors.

In addition to allowing the public to enjoy the beauty of flowering plants, woody ornamentals and garden vegetables and the providing of suggestions on what to do with patio areas, persons are invited to bring in diseased plants, weed or turf problems; houseplant problems, food preservation questions and any other problems and questions about home horticulture—and the experts will be available to help in answering those questions and to offer suggestions and alternatives in the solving of those problems.

A special program of demonstrations and informational sessions in tours of the garden center have been arranged for both days of the "open house."

From 1-2 p.m. there will be a demonstration of home lawn care—and from 3 to 4 p.m. there will be sessions and demonstrations on varieties of lawn grasses; spraying to control weeds, insects and diseases in lawns, and de-thatching.

Two tours of the garden center is scheduled both days for 4-H members. Both will be half-hour tours. The first at 1 p.m. and the second at 3 p.m. During the tours, 4-H projects dealing with horticulture will be discussed.

The vegetable gardens will be spotlighted in two tours each day. They will also be half-hour tours, starting at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. During the vegetable tours, the varieties recommended by UK will be pointed out and discussed and demonstrations will be made on the taking and analyzing of soil tests and on the cultural techniques for the home gardener.

Demonstrations in the care of woody landscape plants, including planting, fertilization and pruning, will be conducted in hour-long sessions at 2 and 4 p.m. each of the two days.

All during the 1-5 p.m. periods on both days, professional advice from the specialists will be available in the areas of container plants, vegetable crops, fruits and nuts, annual flowers (the All-America Selections in particular), herb gardens, 4-H horticulture, plant diseases, plant insects, ornamental plants and home economics as related to the canning and preserving of vegetables and fruits.

UK's Landscape Garden Center was launched in 1971 for the benefit of homeowners.

LANDSCAPE GARDEN CENTER FEATURE—A dwarf conifer bed is one of the many features of the Landscape Garden Center developed on the UK campus by the Horticulture and Landscape Architecture Department of UK's College of Agriculture. More than 500 trees, shrubs, ornamentals, flowers and vegetables that grow well in Kentucky are annually on display at the Center during an "open house" which this year will be on July 22-23. However, the Center is open to the public all during the growing season.

ers, seedsmen, nurserymen, bedding plant growers, garden writers, garden club members and lecturers, professional horticulturists and landscape designers, county agents with the Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service and for students in the College of Agriculture—in horticulture as well as other areas. The center is annually established to provide information and instruction concerning horticulture and to allow visual observation of the most recent selections of plants that grow well in Kentucky, as well as to see and learn about the newest in gardening techniques.

On display at the Landscape Garden Center will be some 500 woody plants, trees, shrubs and vines; All-America Selections in trial grounds of annual flowers, All-America Selections in display gardens of annual flowers, All-America Selections in a vegetable demonstration garden, model vegetable gardens grown by UK College of Agriculture students, a trial plot of the American Iris Society, plus landscape construction ideas for patios and gazebos.

Many of the wood plant materials; perennial flowers, seeds and other plants are provided by individual nurseries and seed producers from over the nation for study and research by the horticulture department of the College of Agriculture.

The Landscape Garden Center is managed by Darrell Slone, a classified technician with the horticulture department, with students assisting in the garden development.

Sharon Bale, an Extension floriculturist and a member of the staff of specialists in the horticulture department, is the All-America Selections judge in the department and has directed the development of the AAS trial and display areas in the center this year.

Commercial fertilizers are compounded to contain different ratios of the major plant nutrients which are nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium. The percentage of each nutrient is listed on the bag and if there is any wonder what effect each of these nutrients has on plants, here is what University of Kentucky agronomists have to say about the matter.

Take nitrogen as a starter. It causes plants to take on a rich green color. It promotes sap and juice (succulence) in leafy crops, lends vitality to both leaf and root, increases plumpness in grain and promotes high protein content in both grain and forage crops.

Phosphorus promotes vigorous root growth, improves the taste of forage crops, encourages flowering and fruiting, increases protein content of alfalfa, promotes stronger straw in cereal crops and increases winter hardiness.

Potassium improves resistance to disease and insects, improves general tone and vigor, strengthens stems of grain and corn, improves winter hardiness of alfalfa and improves the quality of some crops.

These fertilizers come in such formulas as 10-10-10, 4-12-8, 8-24-16 and others. They can be used much more efficiently and with greater success if the prediction of need is based on soil tests or

Harvest Decline Anticipated

By HERBERT SPARROW
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A combination of factors, spearheaded by the weather, is blamed for an anticipated decline in the harvest of many Kentucky crops this year.

"Weather is still the biggest factor affecting crops," David Williamson, chief statistician for the Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, said in an interview.

However, Williamson said the low price of wheat last fall, the higher prices for soybeans compared to corn, federal support programs and even comparisons with bumper crops of the past few years also are contributing to the expected declines.

The July 1 crop estimate released by Williamson's office predicted large declines in the harvests of wheat, barley and apples, and a modest decline in corn. Yields in most of the crops are also expected to be down.

The picture may be brighter for soybeans when their first estimate comes out Aug. 1, but burley tobacco, plagued by late plantings, could be a question. The burley estimates are also not due until August.

Williamson said the wheat crop is nearly all harvested and is expected to be down 37 percent from last year. The yield is also expected to be down about four bushels per acre.

Williamson said both weather and the low wheat prices of last fall can be blamed for the decline in wheat. He said the cold weather delayed some planting, and he thought the farmers would have tried harder to salvage their crops if the prices had been better.

He noted the yield had to be compared with a pretty good yield last year.

Corn yield faces the same comparison problems, with the record 102 bushels per acre of two years ago and 90 bushels per acre last year. Williamson said this year's crop is expected to yield 88 bushels per acre, but that figure is dependent upon good average rain the rest of the summer. Corn production is expected to total 117.9 million bushels this year, 7 percent below last year and 15 percent below 1976.

Williamson said the wet spring which delayed corn planting, combined with the better prices for soybeans, may have prompted many farmers to plant soybeans instead.

"If corn is not planted by June 15 they generally plant soybeans," Williamson said. "And many farmers like to have it in by May 15." He said in some counties, particularly riverbottom counties of western Kentucky, farmers were not able to meet that deadline.

The apple crop is estimated at 15 million pounds, 32 percent below 1977. But Williamson pointed out that was a bumper crop.

Meanwhile, the peach crop, nearly non-existent last year following the hard winter of 1976-77, has recovered and a fair crop of 11 million pounds is expected.

Barley, which has not proven to be productive in Kentucky, is expected to be down by 12 percent this year, although oat production is expected to be up 7 percent.

Final-Round 70 Earns Murray CC Honors

Boone's Eagle-Birdie Start Propels Four-Stroke Victory

Howard Boone didn't waste any time gaining ground on the first-day leaders of the Murray Country Club's Medal Play tournament Sunday, and the early flurry gave him the title in the 22nd annual event.

The 17-year-old Murray High senior-to-be eagled No. 1 and birdied No. 2 en route to a two-under round on the front nine, 144 total and a four-stroke victory.

Three golfers—Joe Rexroat, Mike Holton and Tim Miller—all fired even-par rounds of 72 Saturday to take the lead. Boone had a 74.

But Rexroat zoomed to a 76, Holton and Miller to 78's to make Boone's charge a bit easier.

The title wasn't the first success Boone has experienced—he captured the 11-and-under Kentucky state title in 1972 and the 13-and-under title in 1974—but it was his first non-junior event victory.

Boone used a driver and three-wood to leave himself a ten-foot putt on the 490-yard opening hole, which he sank to quickly pick up two strokes on par. He followed minutes later with another birdie putt.

"I just played pretty solidly, I guess," Boone said. "I got a little lucky on No. 18 (385 yards, par 4). I pushed my drive to the right, but the ball hit a tree and bounced onto the fringe." Boone managed to salvage a par on the hole.

Rexroat's 148 total was good enough for a second in the championship flight, followed by Holton, Miller and Bob Burke (76-74), all with 150's.

Lynn Sullivan edged Nick Hibbard by one stroke to take first-flight honors with a 158, while Walter Jones fires a 169 for top honors in the second flight.

Match play will begin Wednesday, and golfers will be flighted according to their medal play scores.

Prince's National Links Victory Is 1st-Ever Win

BANGOR, Maine (AP) — Insurance salesman Dean Prince says he "just wanted to win something."

"This isn't a bad start," he added.

Prince, 40, of Santa Rosa, Calif., who had never won a golf tournament before, survived six days of rugged competition to capture the 53rd U.S. Amateur Public Links Championship.

He outlasted 158 other amateur golfers from across the country, including an opponent in the finale who is only half his age.

The former Stanford University baseball star, who carried his own golf bag, defeated 20-year-old Tony Figueredo of Miami in the 36-hole match play wrap-up Saturday 5 and 4.

Prince, competing in his third Publinx, barely qualified for the final four days of match-play competition. He had to survive a playoff in medal play to make the final of 64 golfers.

Figueredo, a part-time college student, outdrove Prince by 20 to 30 yards on the rain-drenched Bangor Municipal Course. But Prince proved the more accurate shot-maker.

Prince jumped off to a big lead, using his putter to win the second, third and fourth holes for a 3-up advantage.

He shot par-70 in the 18-hole morning round to Figueredo's 74. Prince was 2-over in the afternoon session when the match ended on the 14th hole. Figueredo was 4-over.

"With the big lead, I was just concerned with 'making pars,'" said Prince. "I wanted to put pressure on Tony to make pars. The rain didn't bother me. I guess I was concentrating too much for it to affect my game."

Little League All-Stars Face Benton Tonight

The Murray Little League All-Stars open sub-district play at the Benton Little League field at 6:30 tonight against the Fulton, Ky., all-star squad.

If Murray wins, they will face Marshall County Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

Should Murray win the sub-district (the championship game is Thursday) it would host the district tourney, to begin July 24.

The team will depart for Benton at 5:15 p.m. from the Little League field.

Carner Credits Scoreboard In Successful Title Defense

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — JoAnne Carner tried something new — scoreboard watching — to break a personal jinx of never defending one of her 19 professional golf titles in previous years. It worked.

"I normally don't watch the board at all, but I watched it all the way around today. I wanted to see how everybody stood, to make myself grind harder," said Carner.

There was one tense exception, at the last hole where she needed a par-4 to salvage a one-shot victory over Pat Bradley and Betsy King Sunday in this $85,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament.

"I didn't look up at the board at 18 until after I hit my chip shot," said the 39-year-old strawberry blonde.

The strategy paid off. She lofted a wedge to within 18 inches of the cup for an easy tap-in putt that gave her a 71, a 7-under-par total of 209, her third 1978 triumph, and a $12,750 check.

More importantly, it prepared her for an assault on her third U.S. Women's Open title this week at the Country Club of Indianapolis. Carner won the game's most prestigious championship in 1971 and 1976.

"I can't wait to play the Open," she said. "Unless something drastic happens, I should be in contention." It was a bitter loss for Bradley, who snagged consecutive bogeys on the last two holes to squander a stroke lead over Carner.

"I just made silly mistakes — really dumb," said Bradley, foiled in a bid for her second LPGA title in the last four weeks. She caught a bunker at 17 and hit a poor chip shot at 18.

Still, she refused to let her heartbreak finish damage her mental stance heading into the Open, beginning Thursday. "I'll just have to try harder next time," she said.

King, a rookie enjoying her best finish, knew she could have earned a tie and forced a playoff if she made a putt at HAZEL PARK, Mich. (AP) — Funeral services were scheduled to be held today in this Detroit suburb for Bonnie Jones, considered by many to be among the best fastpitch softball pitchers in the world.

Jones was killed early Friday in a traffic accident on Interstate 75 in Detroit. He was 45.

Police said Jones was traveling southbound on the McNichols exit ramp when his car was struck head-on by a car going the wrong way. He died at the scene.

Jones, who was born in Murray, Ky., but lived most of his adult life in the Detroit area, was voted the most valuable player in the world fastpitch tournament in 1961, 1964 and 1970.

Jones is survived by his widow, Sybil, a daughter and four stepchildren.

Mauch Turns Batty As Sox Sweep Twinbill; Ruthven Braves Greyhounds In Phils' Win

Associated Press

Gene Mauch might have thought first base umpire Bill Kunkel was blind as a bat...so he threw some to underline his argument.

Kunkel ruled that Minnesota's Mike Cabbage had been picked off first base by catcher Bob Montgomery's throw in the fourth inning of the Twins' 3-2 second-game loss to the Boston Red Sox Sunday. Television replays indicated that Cabbage, who had reached on a single, appeared to slide back to the bag ahead of the throw.

Cabbage rose from the Fenway Park soil and argued vehemently, flinging his helmet and cap, but was out of the game by the time they touched the dirt. That brought Mauch, the Twins manager, out of the dugout on the run.

"Cabbage was safe," screamed Mauch. "I never come out of the dugout unless I know I'm right."

He didn't get to say much to Kunkel, who ejected the Minnesota mentor the moment he arrived. But Mauch wasn't through yet. He dashed back to the dugout and — grabbing bats by the handful — littered the field with more than a dozen before huffing off to the clubhouse.

The afternoon had been frustrating enough for Mauch, as his Twins collected 25 hits but stranded 18 runners in the double-header loss. The Red Sox won the first game 5-3 and took the nightcap long after Mauch and Cabbage had departed.

In other AL action, the Baltimore Orioles edged the Texas Rangers 2-1 in 12 innings, the Kansas City Royals bested New York 3-1 and dropped the defending world champion Yankees to fourth place; the Milwaukee Brewers routed the Chicago White Sox 10-1, the Detroit Tigers blanked the California Angels 4-0, the Oakland A's downed the Toronto Blue Jays 8-5 and the Cleveland Indians beat the Seattle Mariners 8-4.

Royals 3, Yankees 1

Amos Otis hit a two-run homer in the first inning and four Kansas City hurlers held New York to a total of seven hits as the Royals beat the Yankees and dropped them to fourth place in AL East.

Al Hrabosky took over in the eighth and recorded his 13th save as the Royals helped former Yankee Larry Gura, 7-2, beat his former mates for the first time.

Brewers 10, White Sox 1
Rookie infielder Paul Molitor had three hits and three RBI, stole two bases and scored once as Milwaukee routed Chicago for its sixth victory in seven games. Don Money's third homer in four games keyed a five-run Brewers eighth.

Tigers 4, Angels 0
Rusty Staub slammed a three-run homer and Jack Billingham recorded his first AL shutout in leading Detroit past California.

"This was the first time all year I've smelled a shutout," said Billingham, who spent the first 10 years of his career in the National League.

A's 8, Blue Jays 5

Joe Wallis hit a three-run homer in the eighth inning, completing Oakland's comeback from a 5-2 deficit and carrying the A's past the Blue Jays. Oakland's Mike Edwards extended his hitting streak to 17 games, tying the club record set by Bert Campaneris.

National League

The dogs had their day Sunday at Atlanta Stadium. Actually, to be more specific, it was the greyhounds who had their day.

From a promotional standpoint, the first "Greyhound Day" sponsored by the Braves was not exactly a success. But from the standpoint of Dick Ruthven, it was every bit of a smash hit.

When Ruthven was traded earlier this season from Atlanta to Philadelphia, he skipped town rather cheerfully, happy to be going to a team with what he called "greyhounds in the outfield."

In a seemingly vindictive response to Ruthven's comment, Atlanta owner Ted Turner had a "Greyhound Day" waiting for him when he returned to pitch against the Braves Sunday.

Ruthven, however, hardly blinked at the obvious harassment, pitching the Phillies to a 4-2 victory over the Braves with Ron Reed's late-inning relief help.

Elsewhere in the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the San Francisco Giants 9-4 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the nightcap 6-0, the Cincinnati Reds walloped the New York Mets 9-2, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Chicago Cubs 3-2 in 10 innings and 10-6, the Montreal Expos defeated the Houston Astros 6-1 and Chicago beat Los Angeles 3-2 in the opener of a doubleheader before the Dodgers came back to win the nightcap 5-3.

Ruthven and Reed combined on a seven-hitter for the Phillies. Reed gained his eighth save of the year, giving up a home run to Dale Murphy in the ninth before retiring the Braves.

Preston Hanna was almost as effective for Atlanta, allowing only five hits while striking out six and walking just one in seven innings. But he gave up the one walk and two of the hits in the same inning, the second, when the Phillies got two of their runs and a lead they never gave up.

Cardinals 9-0, Giants 4-6

Jerry Mumphrey drove in three runs with a single and a double and Garry Templeton collected three hits, scored twice and added two RBIs in helping St. Louis beat San Francisco in the first game of their doubleheader.

The Cardinals, who had suffered five straight setbacks against the Giants, battered longtime tormentor Jim Barr for 11 of their 14 hits in five innings, two of them triples by Templeton and Ted Simmons.

Mike Sadek doubled home two runs in the second inning to help the Giants beat the Cardinals in the second game behind Ed Halicki's six-hitter.

Bi-Rite Cops Women's Inv. Tourney

Bi-Rite, a team from Nashville, defeated Paducah's Vikings 10-5 for the championship of the Burger Chef Women's Invitational softball tournament Sunday afternoon at the Murray-Calloway County City Park.

Two Murray squads, the Bandits and the Beach Builders, competed, but both lost their first round games and were eliminated from the event on Saturday.

The Lucky Strikes, who are based in Benton but play games in the women's league in Murray, did manage to advance to the finals of the losers' bracket before falling to the Vikings.

Bi-Rite waltzed through the tournament without losing a game, and since it defeated the Vikings Saturday, needed to whip the Paducah team only once to win. Had the Vikings won the final game, another would have been necessary.

Bi-Rite's Beverly Birdsong was selected as the most valuable player for the event, and an all-tournament team was selected.

23-Year-Old Is Dominating In 6-2, 6-0 Win

Gerulaitis Routs Nastase For West Side Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Vitas Gerulaitis continues his climb toward the top of the tennis world.

Gerulaitis, currently ranked fourth behind Bjorn Borg, Jimmy Connors and Guillermo Vilas, took another giant step Sunday when he routed Romania's Ilie Nastase 6-2, 6-0 to win the inaugural $300,000 Forest Hills Invitational at the West Side Tennis Club.

"My goal is to become No. 1," said Gerulaitis, who pocketed a first prize of $100,000, bringing his official earnings for 1978 to $327,495. "I can't really measure it, I don't have any timetable, but I think I'm close. I've improved the past couple of years, and will keep on improving for four or five more."

Gerulaitis has been a Wimbledon semifinalist the past two years. He won the Italian and Australian Opens in 1977, plus the World Championship Tennis Finals and its $100,000 paycheck earlier this year. He's the top ranking men's singles player in World Team Tennis as a member of the New York Apples.

The next step is a victory in one of the big tournaments, Wimbledon or the U.S. Open.

What must he improve to achieve that?

"There's no one thing I can pin-point," replied Gerulaitis, who will be 24 later this month. "I'm just going to try to improve every phase of my game."

The question was then turned around. What is it about Borg that sets him apart — and above — the rest of the tennis world?

"Concentration," replied Gerulaitis. "He has fantastic concentration. Most of us can concentrate for a set or two and then we let up. Borg never lets up. He's concentrating on every point, and that gives him an advantage over the rest of us. That's something I have to work on."

Gerulaitis says that even though Borg is two years younger, "he's been playing top-flight competition since he was 16, so he's really had more experience than me. I get by more on speed and talent, while his technique is far more developed. He's at his peak, or near it, while I think I will be improving for the next four or five years."

Gerulaitis was in complete command of the finals of this WCT event, created to fill a void at the West Side Tennis Club caused by the departure of the U.S. Open for a new tennis complex in Flushing Meadow.

After Nastase scored his only service break of the match to lead 2-1 in the first set, Gerulaitis won the remaining 11 games, many of them with ease. He committed just three unforced errors to 14 by Nastase, allowing the Romanian to score just 10 points in the second set.

He charged the net with supreme confidence, volleying effectively as Nastase made the fatal mistake of hitting short balls.

"He was quicker than me at the net," said Nastase, who took home a runnerup check of $40,000. "These balls were so heavy, I was playing shorter and shorter every point. That gave him a chance to come to the net."

While the big money was in the Invitational this week, Eddie Dibbs, Guillermo Vilas, Bernie Mitton of South Africa and Australian Bill Lloyd were picking up the scraps around the world.

Dibbs, top seeded, defeated Mexican Raul Ramirez 5-7, 6-3, 6-3 to take the singles title in the $125,000 Western Tennis Championships in Cincinnati.

Dibbs received $20,000 for the win, while Ramirez collected $10,000.

Ramirez got some satisfaction, however, teaming with Gene Mayer to defeat Ismail El Shafel of Egypt and Brian Fairlie of New Zealand 6-3, 6-3 in the doubles final.

The lanky Mitton outlasted Australian John James 6-1, 3-6, 7-6 in winning the $75,000

Hall of Fame Tennis Championship at Newport, R.I.

Mitton's victory was his first on the Grand Prix circuit and earned him a first prize of $12,750. He eliminated two seeded players along the way, including top-seeded Arthur Ashe en route to the finals.

Vilas captured the Swiss International Tennis Championship, besting Jose Luis Clerc 6-3, 7-6, 6-4 in an all-Argentine finale at Gstaad.

In the women's final, Virginia Ruzici of Romania defeated Swiss champion Petra Delhees 6-2, 6-2.

Lloyd became the first repeat winner in men's singles on the Canadian Challenge Circuit, posting a 6-2, 6-2 triumph over Chip Fisher of Palo Alto, Calif., in the $15,000 Ontario Open. The 18-year-old Sydney native earned $1,800.

Zenda Liess of Daytona Beach, Fla., won her third straight women's circuit open, scoring a 6-0, 7-6 victory over Aloida Spex of Miami in the final.

Nicklaus' Personality Matches Success In Golf World As Victory List Grows

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — As major golfing conquests continue to escalate for Jack Nicklaus, adjectives to describe the man run thin. They've all been used, reused and embellished — many times over.

Accolades run the risk of sounding like cliches. It is difficult to give this magnificent athlete his just due — as a champion and a person — without venturing into soporifics.

Today, resurrecting the drama of his 17th major championship and his third British Open crown over the oldest, craggiest and orneriest course the game has known, it is no time to apply the brakes. Calousness and cynicism have to take a holiday.

No other man in this generation — perhaps in any generation — has so dominated his sport while distinguishing himself in overall character and dignity. He is a rarity in the madcap, greedy, egocentric world of professional fun and games.

Baseball players who shrug off tykes with autograph pads and sulk in the sanctuary of their locker rooms could take a lesson in public relations from this pleasant midwesterner who never has been seen to turn his back on a fan or a newsmen.

Many of the pros in basketball and football, who sometimes get carried away with their own importance, would do well to copy Nicklaus' sensitivity to obligations he has as a public sports figure.

Rotten-spoiled tennis players — and they are becoming legion — should be compelled to spend a day on the golf course to see how a great champion conducts himself with opponents, the public and the press.

One can recall his first introduction to this future fairway giant in 1957 when the U.S. Open was played at Inverness in Toledo, Ohio.

"You ought to meet Charlie's boy," proud Ohioans told visiting newsmen, herding them over to see Charlie Nicklaus, a Columbus druggist who had a hand on a lean, tow-head 19-year-old.

"This is Jack," they said. "He already has won the state amateur and he's just 17. Hi, Jack," the visitors said perfunctorily and rushed over to watch Ben Hogan and Cary Middlecoff on the practice putting green.

Two years later, Jack Nicklaus won the first of his two national amateur titles and people began taking notice.

There was the period in 1961 when Jack, 21 years old and beseeched by Bob Jones to remain amateur, labored over the decision to turn pro: He was criticized for playing an America's Cup match in Monterrey, Mexico, while still undecided.

They booed him in 1962 at Oakmont when he beat everybody's hero, Arnold Palmer, for the U.S. Open title — his first experience with Arnie's stampeding army. And there were those exasperating years when he was referred to as "whalebone" and "Ohio Fats."

Nothing broke big Jack's spirit. He began compiling tournament victories by the clusters and major championships — Masters, British and U.S. Opens and PGAs — until soon he had far exceeded the records compiled by the late Bob Jones, Ben Hogan and Arnold Palmer.

Sadri, Margolin Win Hardcourts

CLEVELAND (AP) — John Sadri of Charlotte, N.C., and Stacy Margolin of the University of Southern California carried off individual honors in the National Amateur Hardcourt tennis championships in Cleveland.

Sadri easily disposed of Tony Graham of Sausalito, Calif. 6-1, 6-4 Sunday to win the men's singles title.

Then he and Graham teamed to win the men's doubles championship.
